Updates

The following are ongoing recommendations for recruitment and retention of board members and peer reviewers

- Publications-related onboarding for elected section heads to communicate manuscript peer review as one of their *expected* service duties as a section chair or executive board member within SAA. Looking to Council and various section leads and communications teams to help underscore this throughout the year and during annual meeting. The Publications Program offers to work with Governance to host a post-annual webinar or information session outlining these responsibilities to section chairs.
- Remuneration or comparable compensation for the two section leader peer reviewers who see the first draft, as peer review may amount to significant labor or participation from people who are already volunteering as section leaders. If money or gift card are an issue, a comparable benefit, such as a reduction in annual meeting registration may be appropriate, to convey all parties' understanding that strong, critical peer reviews are key to the quality of SAA's book publishing program. As it becomes more challenging to secure peer reviewers at the current time, this recommendation may help advance recruitment and retention in this area.

*Some aspects of contract and production reside with ALA.
