B. Marketing

- a. Several new items from SAA were promoted in the first three months of the year, apart from the publications news listed above:
  - i. SAA posted and promoted the call for stories for COPA’s “A Finding Aid to My Soul” virtual event. A record 54 story pitches were submitted. From those, five were chosen and a number of others were identified for COPA’s blog and as potential articles for Archival Outlook.
  - ii. SAA Publications ran a “spring cleaning” book sale March 9 to March 20 to help move slower-selling and older books. From this, we also developed a new section of the Bookstore to sell slow-selling books.
  - iii. Communications worked with the Foundation to promote an ongoing campaign to promote the Mosaic Scholarship. The initial call for submissions went out in March, and the initiative continues into April.
- B. Individual education courses were marketed via social media, as were individual articles from recent issues of Archival Outlook.

C. Communications Procedures Reminder

- a. SAA produces a large amount of content each month, from procedural updates to statements to professional information. Given those constraints, we ask the following when a statement is planned to be released:
  - I. Please ensure the statement is finalized prior to being shared with staff for release. Information, structure, and sentence-level changes should be finalized.
  - ii. Staff will review the statement for clarity. Minor grammatical errors (correcting capitalization, commas, etc.) will be made by staff. Anything that requires larger clarification will be run past the body releasing the statement prior to the statement being released.
- b. The goal of these guidelines is to minimize confusion and duplication of work and streamline the publication process.
- C. Please reach out to Communications Manager Julia Pillard at jpillard@archivists.org if you have any questions.
