

2024 SAA Research Forum

The role of OER in Amplifying Special Collections

Preliminary Findings from a Scoping Review

Autumn M. Johnson
Nikki Cannon-Rech

Overview

Effort to examine the intersection of Open Educational Resources (OER) and archival practices, focusing on how cultural heritage professionals utilize OER platforms to promote their collections for educational use. Despite growing demand for OER, archivists' integration of open educational practices remains largely unexplored.

Methodology

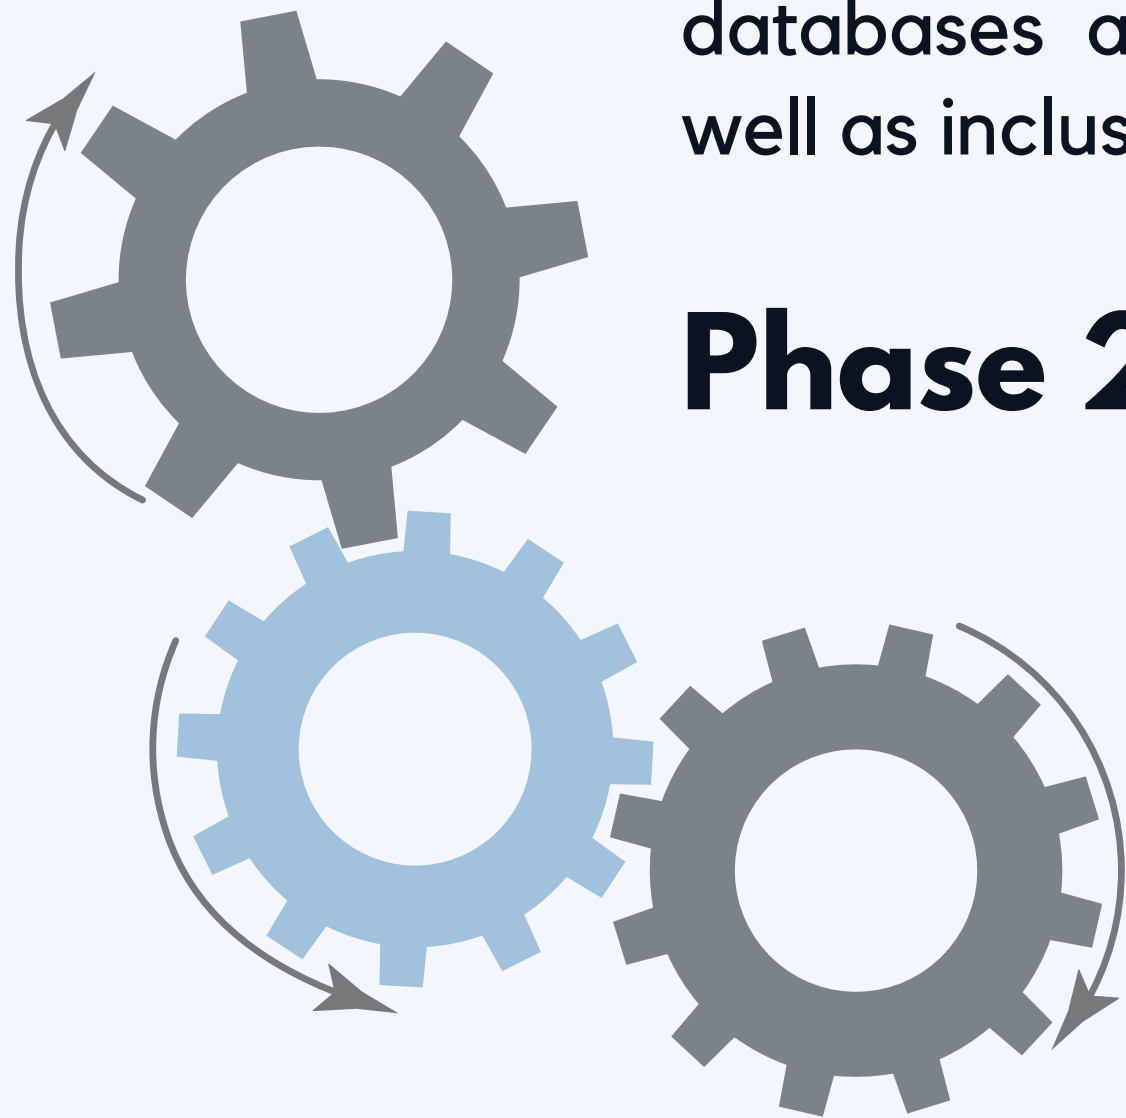

Phase 1 Defining scope and search strategy

Refined initial research question, identified relevant databases and sources, and developed search terms as well as inclusion/exclusion criteria

Phase 2 Screening and selecting literature

Conducted initial searches and performed reviews of selected articles to identify relevant studies. Refined initial inclusion/exclusion criteria

Phase 3 Analyzing and synthesizing findings
Still ongoing.

Results (so far!)

CHAPTER 13

Open Pedagogy and the Archives: Engaging
Students in Public Digital Humanities

Trey Conatser

Mutual Absence

INTRODUCTION

With the release of the first edition of Debates in the Digital Humanities

Leading archival publications lack significance reference to open educational resources (OER) or open pedagogy. Similarly, prominent OER publications do not discuss archives, special collections, or other cultural heritage institutions.

OPEN GLAM AS OER:

DIGITAL CULTURAL HERITAGE AND THE INTERSECTIONS OF PRIMARY SOURCE LITERACY AND INFORMATION LITERACY

Roger Gillis, Dalhousie University

Open Educational Resources
however, when considering may neglect to consider the ingly, cultural heritage organ and allowing their digitized collections to be reused by users without the

Non-US Leadership

Most existing research on this topic is found in gray literature or tangentially related fields. This research is predominantly conducted by professionals from the United Kingdom, Australia, and Canada.

2024 SAA Research Forum

Thank You!

autumnjohnson@georgiasouthern.edu

dcannonrech@georgiasouthern.edu