

October RMS Steering Committee Meeting October 10, 2019

Here are some updates on our work:

- We are encouraging submissions of RM-related proposals for the 2020 SAA annual meeting. Our spreadsheet has collected some interesting ideas, so please sign up if you're interested in presenting one of those sessions. And there's still time to develop a new idea. The submission deadline is November 15th.
- We intend to provide some feedback on the proposed ISO/DIS 30300. Let us know if you have comments you'd like us to consider.
- We intend to update our microsite by the end of the year to make it more user-friendly. If you've ever sought out information there and struggled to find it, let us know so we can try to improve that experience.
- We want to develop some toolkits/zines to be primers on RM. Our first topic will focus on digital disposition. Let us know if there are particular topics you'd like to see addressed in this series.
- We're investigating the intersections between archives and RM. Check out the series of mini lit reviews and testimonials that we've begun on our blog. Thanks to Cathy Miller for helping arrange several of the testimonials. And we're still gathering more viewpoints to include in this series.
- We're coordinating with the SAA Education Committee to figure out which of our initiatives will need to go through those channels.
- We'd like to expand the coverage of our blog series on Resourceful Records Managers. If you work in a business or nonprofit sector, we'd love to hear from you. All are welcome to submit responses through this Google form.
