Letter from the Co-Chair

Greetings and HAPPY NEW YEAR!

"Happy" is a relative term, depending on one's interpretation. And as I contemplated a theme for this first 2026 "Letter from the AAC Chair," happiness kept coming to mind. There's an African philosophy "Ubuntu" meaning "I am because we are."

<https://olivenetwork.org/Issue/ubuntu-i-am-because-we-are/24347>

Fellow SAA members, with all of the uncertainty in the world, mass layoffs in our chosen professions, the onset of AI, you're probably asking, "What is there to feel 'happy' about?"

Well, I believe it's a choice. Personally, I've experienced 3 corporate layoffs in my career and the 4th layoff most recently. And as I navigate unemployment specifically as a "baby boomer," I choose to be "happy" through the storm. Because the storm and clouds will certainly pass.

As memory workers, it is "we," the "whole," that have the power to help transform someone's livelihood and career paths.

Remember the collective power we hold to reach down and across to help lift up one another during these uncertain times in our profession of choice.

And with that:

- IMLS grants have been reinstated and March 13th is the deadline to apply.

90th Annual Meeting of the Society of American Archivists

We are living in a period of momentous change for the archives, records management, and cultural heritage professions. These changes have affected everything from workflows to community engagement, and from personnel issues to sustainability. Different types of repositories have experienced these political, technological, cultural, and environmental forces in diverse ways. ARCHIVES*RECORDS 2026 gives us an opportunity to take stock, to explore innovative solutions to the problems we are encountering, and to assess our professions' history, practices, assumptions, and training

Stay tuned for more information.

XVIII Recovering the US Hispanic Literary Heritage/Association for Documentary Editing 2026 University of Houston

The Recovering the US Hispanic Literary Heritage Program (Recovery) and the Association for Documentary Editing (ADE) will bring together scholars, archivists, editors, students, and community practitioners to explore how figures and documents—canonical, forgotten, official and grassroots—have shaped the histories, literatures and identities of the United States.

The conference theme, Record Keepers of Nation: Diverse Foundational Figures and Documents of the US, highlights the intersection, conflicts and compromises of people, papers, voices, archives and biographies of first nations, natives, settlers, immigrants and exiles that have forged collective memory and national narratives. The conference will emphasize recovery, preservation and dissemination of the historical records of various communities that expand and unsettle our understanding of the nation's foundation.

NEW DIGITAL COLLECTION

Black New Orleans Nightlife Posters, 1979-1980

Tulane University Special Collections (TUSC) has recently published a digitized collection of Black New Orleans nightlife posters, 1979-1980. This sub-collection of posters from the Hogan Archive poster and calendar collection (HJA-095) represents concerts and other music and dance events presented in New Orleans and the surrounding region for young participants who made up the primary target audience for R&B, funk, disco, DJ and dance culture, and hip hop in the late 1970s and early 1980s. The posters reveal happenings, locations, events, businesses, photographs, and both locally and nationally known artists of Black New Orleans popular culture and youth culture of the time.

The House Archives Built and Other Thoughts on Black Archival Possibilities

By Dorothy Berry

“As cultural heritage institutions across the nation grapple with the realization that their collecting histories have captured an incomplete picture of history, curators and archivists like Dorothy Berry have been drawn into complicated conversations. The House Archives Built and Other Thoughts on Black Archival Possibilities brings together years of those conversations from their origins in conference halls, webinars, and reading rooms to open them up to the public. The labor and theory that upholds archives has been obscured, but our understandings of history and ourselves rest on those invisible foundations. This book clarifies those foundations while offering new possibilities for imagining archival futures in and outside of institutional holdings.”

Scattered and Fugitive Things: How Black Collectors Created Archives and Remade History

By Gabrielle Dean, The American Archivist

“Arturo Schomburg. Alexander Gumby. Virginia Lee. Dorothy Porter. Vivian Harsh. L. D. Reddick. Some or all of these names may be familiar to you, as the subjects of biographies and library histories, in books and articles about the building of African American institutions, and, of course, directly or indirectly, in hundreds if not thousands of footnotes. Bringing them together as Black librarians, bibliophiles, archivists, and curators from the turn of the twentieth century through the early days of the civil rights movement, Laura Helton illuminates not just their visionary creation and stewardship of Black collections, but, with rich and astounding detail, their day-to-day work as Black bibliographers.”
