1	Practical instruction on how to create EAD in Oxygen and where to find style sheets to apply. I am at a small organization with no support in this area plus expect I will be able to go to write and replicate the results.	4/26/2016 11:04 AM
2	The concrete explanation of all of the elements and how they are related.	4/26/2016 10:57 AM
3	Surprisingly, it was really helpful to write down the actual elements in our workbooks while Michael or Kris walked us through it. All in all everything I expected and very useful. Pacing was great.	4/26/2016 10:07 AM
4	Archivist and librarians have been trained to think about data in different ways sometimes similarities and terms cause confusion or can be a pain point, this was not only a wonderful introduction to xml, but archives in general. This will me converse with coworkers in the future.	4/26/2016 9:59 AM
5	Understanding the nature of parent child elements is really helpful as EAD is so hierarchical. Building an EAD finding aid from start to finish is likewise, very helpful.	4/25/2016 4:56 PM
6	I really appreciated the workbook (So I didn't always need to read the screen up front)	4/25/2016 4:51 PM
7	Hands on making it work.	4/25/2016 4:47 PM
8	The paired group and individual exercises were very useful	4/25/2016 4:41 PM
9	N/a	4/25/2016 4:39 PM
10	I liked writing code in the workbook and then applying with oxygen.	4/25/2016 4:34 PM
11	N/a	4/25/2016 4:32 PM
12	Writing out the elements before typing.	4/25/2016 4:30 PM
13	Enjoyed the examples. Style Sheet sections were useful as I have never coded a style sheet before.	4/25/2016 4:28 PM
14	I liked the overall of discussions, paper, computer. This cycle was useful plus kept the info clear and the session interesting.	4/25/2016 3:49 PM
15	The hands on encoding in oxygen was really helpful. I'm glad I got the chance to actually encode.	4/25/2016 3:44 PM
16	It was helpful to code the finding aids but difficult to write + listen to the presenters.	4/25/2016 3:39 PM
17	Hands on encoding exercises, history and justification of EAD, style sheet information.	4/25/2016 3:19 PM
18	Being provided a workbook to take personal notes in really furthered my understanding. It also made it easier that I had a prior familiarity with EAD.	4/25/2016 3:02 PM
19	Info about things that are new/different in EAD 3 from EAD 2002	4/25/2016 2:58 PM
20	Encoding portion.	4/25/2016 2:38 PM

1	None, I appreciate how hands on this was plus the references of EAD dictionary, etc for reference as needed.	4/26/2016 11:04 AM
2	none	4/26/2016 10:57 AM
3	Landscape view for pages we code! Maybe instead of looking at the more complex style sheets have students write a simple style sheet memo?	4/26/2016 10:07 AM
4	None. I really liked the lecture/handwriting/typing method instructions were very clear and instructors would often discuss their differing pov on questions which made for really interesting thought experiments.	4/26/2016 9:59 AM
6	More space to code in the workbook change to landscape,	4/25/2016 4:51 PM
7	Perhaps copy/paste text from a word processing document so we don't spend time rotely typing.	4/25/2016 4:47 PM
8	N/a	4/25/2016 4:41 PM
9	N/a	4/25/2016 4:39 PM
10	Make more space in the workbook to write.	4/25/2016 4:34 PM
11	N/a	4/25/2016 4:32 PM
12	Take a bit more time for typing.	4/25/2016 4:30 PM
13	Work book needs to be printed in Landscape, portrait orientation makes mark-up difficult.	4/25/2016 4:28 PM
14	N/a	4/25/2016 3:49 PM
15	I would suggest spacing where we write in tags. I had issues writing in EAD tags.	4/25/2016 3:44 PM
16	see above	4/25/2016 3:39 PM
17	Would welcome more about style sheets.	4/25/2016 3:19 PM
18	I would do subsequent workshops on Html/style sheets. I didn't like the answer to all my questions to be "It's not you, it's the style sheets".	4/25/2016 3:02 PM
19	It would be nice if SAA offered something (maybe a webinar) that is specifically for people who are familiar with EAD but want learn about updates. That said I still found it useful to review.	4/25/2016 2:58 PM
20	Reconfigure workbook so that it accommodates notes for tags.	4/25/2016 2:38 PM
