1	Well, I didn't feel that the webinar really had much to do with providing access to born digital records in a practical way. The policy considerations are not what I wanted to learn about -- for me they are mostly common sense, or being in compliance with legislation. Rather, I wanted some concrete examples of actually making born digital records accessible to people either in the reading room or on-line.	9/30/2016 12:18 PM
2	none	3/11/2016 9:52 AM
3	The detail covered in the course seemed to differ a bit from the exam questions. For example, the session did not go into why individual file vs .iso/.tar files should be cataloged and the impact on access.	2/29/2016 3:25 PM
4	I would like some insight of what new software is in the works. What are the problems we are attempting to solve now? If we had a "magic wand" what will we solve? Just and idea. I loved the instructor's teaching style, all good for me.	1/29/2016 7:58 AM
5	The webinar was very short and that the cost of the webinar was much greater than the value of what I got out of it. I felt that most of the material covered was common sense or something I already knew. I almost feel that the important information could be summarized in a several page paper and offered at a much cheaper rate than a full webinar. The only reason I see this as needing to be a webinar was for the PDF redacting section, which I imagine would need to be updated more regularly as technology changes.	1/28/2016 3:53 PM

1	Anything and everything to do with electronic records. I live in Canada and therefore it is unlikely for any SAA presentation to occur in my city.	9/30/2016 12:21 PM
2	Copyright issues for digital archives. Cincinnati, OH	3/11/2016 9:55 AM
3	Foundational courses	2/29/2016 3:27 PM
4	More preservation classes, and digital forensics. I will volunteer my institution to be a host. We seldom have anything in Arkansas. I already hosted the Digital Repositories session last April 17.	1/29/2016 8:00 AM
5	More offerings of the digital forensics workshops. Any of the major Texas cities would be great.	1/28/2016 3:58 PM
