Ethel Person, 77; Studied Sexual Fantasies

By LISA HARRIMAN

Ethel Person, a towering, worldly psychologist who did pie-needling research on sexuality, visiting sex shops and ran therapy centers to help individuals who, in treated professionals and transsexuals and transsexuals, broad-based clinical studies on the role of sexual fantasy in people's lives, died on Oct. 30 at her home in Manhattan, she was 77.

The quiet, and complicated, in Alzheimer's disease, for she says she never said.

Dr. Person was frequently a feminist, searching for general clinical guidelines and sex the ethics of her house, the best known of which is "The Book of Fantasy: How to Stop Her Lies" (1957). Dr. Ethel was proud that people shaped their lives by trying consciously to conform to her own ideal. Lovers.

Dr. Person, a former student of Dr. Carl Jung, had been the director of the Columbia University Center for Psychological, Counseling and Research, which Dr. Person led from 1981 to 2011, and she was best known for her psychological work on sexual fantasy. In her book "The Erotic Mind: A Psychological and Cultural History" (1997), she wrote that we are born with drives but are told "that but they are multiple and fluid."

A few years after joining the staff of the posthumously named Dr. Person to most of Dr. Ethel Person, who would become well-known for her own research, to examine the highly controversial question of the relationship and clinical work. My Daughter Changed Sex

A deeply moving account of an actual event—how “miracle” treatment transformed a girl who was a tragic misfit into a young man with hope of an almost-normal life

“It’s a boy!” or “It’s a girl!” Those are the first words a mother hears about her newborn. Everything else about this fresh new life is uncertain. Will the child be healthy, intelligent, good-looking, happy, lucky? No one knows at the moment of birth. Only the child’s sex is sure.

“It’s a girl!” I was told on that blustery November morning in 1950 when Tracy was born. I held my miraculous new daughter, my first child, and examined her and saw that she was indeed a perfect little girl. But I was wrong. Disastrously wrong. Inside the body of that beautiful girl baby was the personality and psyche of a boy. It has taken 22 years of tragedy and misery and hurt for the boy inside Tracy to emerge.

I want to tell about that change now, in all its painful detail, because it is an astonishing story of one human being’s successful struggle for self-fulfillment, of one family’s tortured journey into understanding, of medical intervention at its most compassionate and of an

SUZY SEZ...

The one thing a real transvestite dreams of is giving birth. . . . I've done it. . . . I have given life to my new baby. . . . The United Transvestite and Transexual Society. It was started in motion back in October 1973, when our first group meeting was mentioned in the Female Impersonator Newsletter. When our readers began writing for help in finding other places like our own, so they may attend them.

Then my phone was listed as a help line for TVIS in Spencer, N.C. . The calls came in a continuous flow, asking for help in other areas of transvestism. . . I needed help. . . so I called on a few of my personal friends who were knowledgeable in the transvestite field to help gather the information that was required to answer the questions and solve the problems we were encountering. Between the letter, phone calls, and personal contacts we decided to begin operations with UTTS and enlarge our staff to a point where we could handle all the services needed and asked for by our readers.

We contacted Jamie Howell asking his advice for the best way we could be of service and we recieved his backing and best wishes on our undertaking. Plus the backing and support of a few smaller groups we have contacted.

The main object of U.T.T. S. is not to take over or replace organizations that are now operating, but to work with them in any way we can to advance their cause.

A U.T.T.S. Newsletter will be sent to all persons joining the Society. The U.T.T.S. Newsletter will contain a number of services that will be beneficial to its readers and members.

To begin with, it will contain;

1. A consumers section; to list products and the people you deal with in obtaining them. To check into complaints we receive about them and follow through by listing the results in our column.

T.V. OF THE MONTH

KAREN RIGG

2. Reviews; to give reviews on books and magazines. To inform our readers on their contents, so they'll know before they buy if it's what they are looking for.

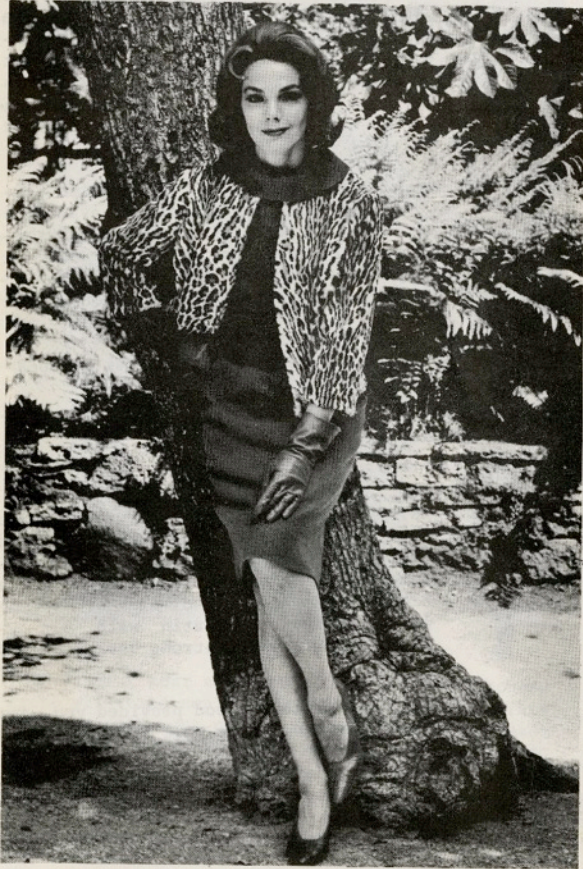

3. Telephone help lines; to list all help line type services, keep the list up to date and to start new ones in areas where we can find the help to run them.

4. Commerical Service; to list as many people and companies that we can find, that give a fair deal and will cater to the needs of TVs & TSs. Services such as clothing outlets, beauty supplies, photographers, doctors, lawyers and anything you may request that we can find for you.

Queens celebrated it's first birthday and fight for freedom on HALLOWEEN, Oct. 31st, 1970. Executive Director, Lee G. Brewster cut the birthday cake at t he gala affair. He the announced Queen's birthday gift to the queens of New York; which was legalization of drag at mas-querade balls.

The costumes were fantastic! One more fabulous than the other. One member of the press present stated, "that the cos-tumes were more splendid than those ap-pearng in the famous Philadelphia Mum-mers Parade." Most of the girls, as you can see from these pictures, are having the time of their lives.

"WHIPPIN-UP SOME FUN 'N' GAMES"

A comic book panel illustration on a yellow background, framed by a blue border with circular punch holes. The main scene shows a woman in a cowboy hat and a man in a suit on a wooden deck. The woman is leaning over the man, who is sitting on the ground. A speech bubble from the woman says "AND MAKE YOU LIKE IT!". Below this, a smaller scene shows a man shouting "STOP!" at a woman who is running away. The text "SHE WHO DOMINATES" is printed at the bottom right of the panel.

Sexual Minorities
Report

EDITORIAL:

by RON TYSON

Any social revolution (and there's nothing more social than sex), sooner or later, arrives at a stage where it becomes necessary to clarify the ideals and principles behind it. Throughout the sexual revolution in this country, much credit must be given to the many publications and organizations who have had the guts to speak out and fight for sexual freedom in our society. Special merit should be granted those few pioneers such as Playboy, Screw and the Gay and Women's Liberation movements, who have had to place their figurative heads into the civil and moral noose to obtain the comparatively vast amount of sexual freedom we enjoy today. Unfortunately, as history has proven, revolutions have a tendency, not to change, but to exchange one set of values and principles for another. This is at best only a slight improvement.

These same pioneers, who have fought so long and hard for everyone's right to enjoy sexual freedom, also feel that they have the right to draw lines and limits regarding what kind of sex everyone should have. They'll acknowledge the fact that there are sexual variants who dance to a different pipe. At the same time, they'll make it quite clear that they consider such things as perversions, or sick, and they will not hesitate to denigrate or put them down at every opportunity. Playboy and similar magazines will fight for your right to have oral or anal sex provided it is done on a higher plane with taste and distinction. Screw and the other undergrounds will take you on a four-letter orgy of sex saying 'anything goes' but drawing lines and putting down the 'weirdo' views. The liberation movements will fight tooth and nail for your right to be different, as long as it is their kind of different. Yet, all of these pioneers are self-proclaimed champions of sexual freedom.

According to our Declaration of Independence everyone has an 'inalienable right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness'. Our main concern is with the last since sexual freedom can certainly be considered a large part in the 'pursuit of happiness'.

Logic dictates that in the pursuit of sexual happiness, the only limits or boundaries - civil, moral or religious - should be when the rights of one individual overlap intrude on or deny those of another. Inflicting force, pain or other indignities upon another human being, without their consent, SHOULD be considered legally and morally wrong. Yet, what about those to whom such actions become, not a violation of their rights, but a requirement for their happiness? Who has the right to point at a 'traps' scene which is mutually agreeable and satisfying to both participants, and claim it is immoral? Who has the right to brand or label 'perverted', the basic drives in people to give and receive pain and suffering or groove on the touch, taste, smell or feel of leather, rubber, metal, silks, furs, stained panties, tickling, old suede shoes or their own hand? Who has the right to deny the abortion of an unwanted fetus? Who has the right to add frustrations and hangups onto a growing child by forcing him to wait till he's eighteen or twenty-one before he can legally relieve the natural urges and drives he's had since he was anywhere from five to twelve years old? The answer to all of the above questions is - NOBODY has such a right. Between mutually agreeable participants, NOBODY has the right to set limits or even infer that their sexual 'pursuit of happiness' be kept within understood boundaries.

The purpose, aim and goal of this paper is threefold. First, to communicate and explain our sexual variations to each other and the general public. Second, to show that there is no such thing as sexual perversion - only variation. Third, to fight for the rights of mutually agreeable participants to indulge in their pursuit of sexual happiness in ANY WAY they see fit, regardless of sex, age or method. While our approach will heavily emphasize the S/M or Dominant/Submissive aspect of sex, all variations are welcomed (and not just by lip service). This publication is dedicated to the readers' views and their 'inalienable right to pursue happiness' as they see fit.

FORWARD

Most of you are familiar with "CENTURIAN", which is devoted to leather and bondage items and "APHRODISIA", our sexual aid magazine. We hope that by now you've enjoyed our recently issued "MEDIAEVAL", which specializes in bizarre items of metal. Now we bring you "FANTASIA", our bondage latex rubber and high heel magazine.

Before we even put out this first rubber magazine we researched all sources and materials very carefully. We found that most firms procure their items from other countries and their customers consequently wait three or four months for delivery. And once they did receive their rubber order they found the rubber was so paper thin that it ripped the first or second wearing. So we decided if we were going to compete, we might as well put out the best.

First we went to all the sheet rubber manufacturers, none had anything durable enough yet stretchy enough for our needs. We told them the rubber latex had to stretch to fit tight, yet be strong enough to withstand constant use. We finally arranged for a firm to make three thicknesses especially for us. Then we set up our own manufacturing company just for rubber latex apparel and bondage gear. This accomplished three things-Fast service, a durable latex rubber, plus the advantage of designing and making things no other firm can.

Our #25 Latex is a grade better and thicker than most.-It is comparable with other dealers top grade. The #25 we use for clothing such as jump suits, pants etc. Our #35 latex rubber is thicker, just as stretchy, but even more durable. This we use for body binders, helmets, arm binders, etc. Our #50 is made especially for straps, nothing else. Straps for any use--around helmets, arm binders, or just to be used alone.

Our rubber items are made strictly for the rubber bondage lovers--We will not waste your time or ours putting out the frilly panties and bloomers. Our items are all made to fit tightly and restrict.

We also do one other thing no other firm does, Send us $1.00 to cover postage & handling and we will send you a sample of our three kinds of rubber for your inspection and choice.

We solicit photo's and drawings for our future volumes from readers. We also welcome your correspondence concerning the subjects and articles discussed in "FANTASIA", and any ideas you might have. Remember--Bondage is for enjoyment. If you don't know what it's about, forget it.
