

Bringing Archival Description and Digital Objects Together with Drupal

SETH SHAW

Abstract: The University Libraries at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas, is in the process of integrating the "Islandora CLAW" digital repository software and the "Drupal 8/ArchivesSpace Integration" into a single user interface closely integrating archival description and digital objects. This presentation will briefly explain our rationale for this approach, the system architecture, our progress to-date, and upcoming tasks.

About the Author:

Seth Shaw is an Application Developer in the University of Nevada, Las Vegas Libraries supporting Special Collections & Archives. Previously, he was the Electronic Records Archivist for Duke University Archives and an Assistant Professor of Archival Studies for Clayton State University.