

Witnesses to History!

On behalf of the Michiana Memory digital archive the St. Joseph County Public Library and Indiana University South Bend is hosting a Scan-a-Thon at the Main Public Library in downtown South Bend in the Studio 304 Digital Lab.

Saturday, October 24th from 12:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m.

We are already opening the archives of St. Joseph County Public Library and Indiana University South Bend for posting online in our Civil Rights and African American History collection in Michiana Memory. What's missing? You! Your memories and photos!

We invite you to bring in your photographs that document key events in our county's history concerning civil rights and African American heritage, so we may scan them for possible inclusion in our database. We'll scan them, take down names, dates and places to set each photo's context, and return them back to you. While you wait!

The source materials are being scanned and uploaded in part through an LSTA Indiana Memory Digitization Grant from the Institute of Museum and Library Services of the Indiana State Library. The photographs will join our existing Civil Rights and African American History collection. View the collection at:
